To Build Efficiency, it is Best to Start from the Ground Up.

LEAN-LED PLANNING AND DESIGN SERVICES

The Lean-Led Design Process

ASSESS

Assess the current state (if one exists) and meet with stakeholders to define the project vision.

COLLABORATE

Agree on the path forward with the client, architect, and, if available, the contractor.

DEFINE

Assemble multi-disciplinary teams and hold 3P events to define future macro process and layout.

DESIGN

Inform the architectural team of 3P findings and guide them to an optimal solution.

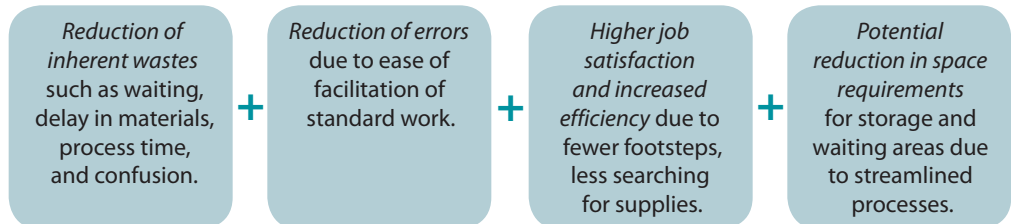

Undertaking a facility expansion or renovation represents a significant investment of time and money on the part of a healthcare organization. While the birth of a new facility is a great indicator of an organization's success, it is also the primary point in its 50- to 60-year lifecycle that it can become entombed in sub-optimal process. This is why your operating processes must be 'designed' before the building is completed.

While a new building has a large one-time expense, if that new building is not operating optimally, it costs you financially—and potentially though the safety of your patients—year after year throughout its lifecycle.

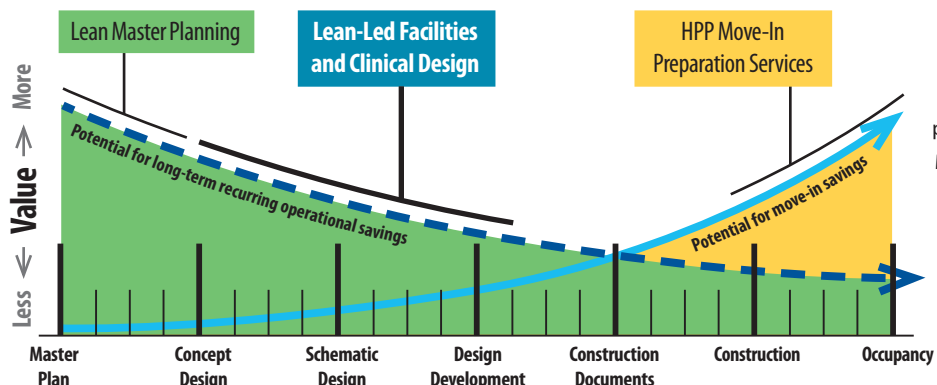

Healthcare Performance Partners' Lean-Led Planning and Design is a value-focused series of products to improve both the delivery and operation of healthcare architectural design projects. We can add value at any point from master planning through occupancy.

HPP uses Lean principles and tools to create environments that support waste-free operational and patient-focused processes. Our team works collaboratively with your employees, the architect, and the contractor to define first how your hospital should function, then how it should be physically laid out.
